

Citing Internet Sources

If you use any works that you did not create, you should properly city their source. Even if it is works from the public domain or copyrighted works that you have acquired permission.

Web Pages	FTP File
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • name of author(s) -if known • title of the work - in quotes, if known • title of the Web page - in italics, if applicable • date of last revision • URL • Date accessed 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • name of author(s) -if known • title of the work - in quotes, if known • date of last revision • URL • Date accessed
Email	Online Database Research
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> A. name of author B. subject of the message - in quotes C. date the message was sent D. type of communication: personal, distribution list, professional E. author's e-mail address F. Date accessed 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • name of author(s) -if known • title of the work - in quotes, if known • date of last revision • URL • Date accessed Locate two websites of each type specified on the cold war. Write the proper citation for the site. Use today's date for the citation.

News Site: _____

Discussion Board Site: _____

If you were to send a friend an email titled "Cold War Research", how would your email be properly cited if your friend were to use the content of your email?
